We are here to help.

During normal times, we would be out in the community where you need us most. Now we are making every effort to shift our content online and make it as accessible as possible at no or low cost.

We have compiled some key resources to help you find new funders, keep the ones you have and use this time to hone your skills. Our mission to get you the information you need to do good has never been more timely or important. We hope you find this information useful.

1. Candid's coronavirus pop-up page (real time information on the global pandemic - includes news, funding data, observations, etc.).
  - Funds for coronavirus relief
  - Funding opportunities
  - Additional resources from other organizations

ONE ASK: We are working closely with funders to ensure that this site is as inclusive and current as possible. If your organization has funded efforts related to the crisis, simply email egrants@candid.org for additional instructions.

2. Candid's blog post about free programs and resources (highlights of upcoming free trainings on fundraising, DEI, board engagement, etc. and a link to our free digital library)
3. Listing of emergency financial resources related to coronavirus hardships (working/curated list of aid available to individuals, artists, nonprofits, small businesses, etc.)
4. Our network of over 400 partners, called the Funding Information Network \(FIN\), offers on-site training and access to their databases, like Foundation Directory Online. In the wake of COVID19, many of these locations have been temporarily shut down, but are still serving their patrons remotely. Visit your local FIN webpage to see how they are continuing to help your community find the funding you need during this time.
5. Upcoming free special training events (regular no-cost or low-cost training opportunities accessible from anywhere)
6. Past recorded events (rich repository of past programs available to anyone)
  - a. Raising funds in the COVID-19 era
7. Candid's ask us service (open to all, our Online Librarians answer questions regarding the social sector via email – our response time is within 24 to 48 hours, or via live chat 9am – 5pm ET Monday-Friday).
8. Candid's online library (check out free e-books on topics pertinent to the social sector)
